1951	Dick Tracy Art	350	ORIGINAL, one-of-a-kind piece of artwork from longtime Marx artist Roy Ahlgren. This particular piece of artwork was for a 60's Dick Tracy bagatelle game or pinball toy. I am not sure if it was ever produced or a prototype. It is loosely based on the Ralph Byrd likeness of Dick Tracy, this art consists of the pencil sketch as well as a full color test print of the art. If you are a Dick Tracy fan, this is a must for your collection. The art can be rolled and boxed for safer shipping vs the frame it is currently displayed in. The artwork is what was used for either a production item or concept prototype test sample. They are Mr. Ahlgren's pencil drawing, done on a heavy vellum tracing paper ~ (26"x41"), and the final printed version ~ (28"x14") that was actually used in color for press plate work or sent for approval in pre-production. Also included is a nice heavy duty frame and Matte frame! This thing is huge, ~28" x 34" Please note The Glass may not be included. It will be very heavy and hard to ship. It is highly likely to get cracked or broken in shipping. Based on location, the buyer can decide if they want to take that risk. If you collect rare Marx prototypes, archives, Art or Man from UNCLE (or Girl from UNCLE) items, this is a must for your collection. Here is your chance to grab a part of Marx Toys History!
1952	Man From UNCLE Art	225	ORIGINAL, one-of-a-kind piece of artwork from longtime Marx artist Roy Ahlgren. This particular piece is called "Secret Code Wheel". The Man from UNCLE, dated 1966, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer INC. The picture shows them on what looks like a Bagatelle or Pinball backdrop. The artwork is what was used for either a production item or prototype sample. They are Mr. Ahlgren's pencil drawing, done on a heavy vellum tracing paper, and the final printed version that was actually used in color for press plate work or sent for approval in pre-production. Also included is a nice heavy duty frame and Matte frame! This thing is huge, ~28" x 34" Please note The Glass may not be included. It will be very heavy and hard to ship. It is highly likely to get cracked or broken in shipping. Based on location, the buyer can decide if they want to take that risk. If you collect rare Marx prototypes, archives, Art or Man from UNCLE (or Girl from UNCLE) items, this is a must for your collection. Here is your chance to grab a part of Marx Toys History!
1953	Blue and Gray Art	225	ORIGINAL, one-of-a-kind piece of artwork from longtime Marx artist Roy Ahlgren. This particular piece is from a product called "Blue and Gray Shell Shooting Civil War Calvary Pistol". The artwork is what was used for either a production item or prototype sample. They are Mr. Ahlgren's pencil drawing, done on a heavy vellum tracing paper (8"x12"), and the final printed version (8"x12") that was actually used in color for press plate work or sent for approval in pre-production. People who collect Marx playsets, toy guns, cap guns, civil war memorabilia will want this item. It is cool to see art design from artist concept through finished product. Also included is a nice heavy duty frame and Matte frame! This thing is huge, ~30" x 14" Please note The Glass may not be included, has potential risk in shipping. It is highly likely to get cracked or broken in shipping. Based on location, the buyer can decide if they want to take that risk. If you collect rare Marx prototypes, archives, Civil War era Marx toys and playsets, this is a must for your collection. Here is your chance to grab a part of Marx Toys History!
1954	Dragstrip Art	195	ORIGINAL, one-of-a-kind piece of artwork from longtime Marx artist Roy Ahlgren, plus a production box for the item that was to be produced. The Toy item is called "Drag strip featuring the Super special". It has a 1969 date on the package. I am not clear on if it was ever produced. Looks like it would have been orange track and a car in the set if it had been produced. The concept was right in line with another concept Marx did called Mini Marx Blazers (much like hotwheels), art we listed about a year ago. Marx continually produced toys to compete in the toy industry. To my knowledge Marx has never actually produced these sets, perhaps legal reasons. I have never seen the product. The box packaging measures ~ 11" wide X 9" tall. The pencil artwork measures ~ 12" x 12". The auction includes 2 items, the packaging box (no toy), and the sketch. To be more clear, they are Mr. Ahlgren's pencil drawing, done on a heavy vellum tracing paper, and the final printed version of the box that could have actually been used in packaging/producing the toy. If you collect rare Marx prototypes, archives, or Hotwheels and Matchbox, this is a

				Sealed original 55mm president figure. MINT in sealed bag. This would have been a real president figure for the set, however as we no he lost the election. Marx made a bunch of these and never could market the item. I need piece of Marx history!
